Definition of "Private pleasure craft" as in the Energy Products Directive is as follows:

Private pleasure craft shall mean any craft used by its owner or the natural or legal person who enjoys its use either through hire or through any other means, for other than commercial purposes and in particular other than for the carriage of passengers or goods or for the supply of services for consideration or for the purposes of public authorities.

I am aware that the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979, which permits the use of marked diesel to propel private pleasure craft, only applies within UK waters. I acknowledge that nothing in that Act, or the making of this declaration, affects any restrictions or prohibitions that may apply to the use of fuel for propelling private pleasure craft outside UK waters, including any restrictions or prohibitions under the law of another member state that apply within the waters of that member state.

To enable us to continue to supply your marine fuel at the correct duty rate and fulfil our regulatory obligations, please complete the duty declaration form and return to stephen.mizen@certasenergy.co.uk
